preparation for a career in worship-focused ministry
These three interdisciplinary majors are designed to prepare graduates for a range of worship leadership opportunities in the church’s diverse, dynamic, demanding future. The majors offer students choices for academic study based on their interests and skills. In addition to the university’s CORE curriculum, each degree program engages students in challenging and creative courses of study with highly-regarded faculty in a campus environment that values a love of God and a love of learning.
