

SCHOOL OF SOCIAL SCIENCES

Professor H. Bass, Dean

The School includes the Departments of History, Political Science, Psychology, and Sociology. Courses in geography are also offered in the School.

Pre-Professional Curriculum

Students planning professions in government, public administration, social work and other areas in the social sciences should plan to concentrate the major portion of their work in the School of Social Sciences. Special attention and counseling are provided for those students whose vocational objectives require knowledge in these areas. This school maintains contact and exchanges information with graduate programs to insure the student maximum preparation opportunities.

Pre-Law Curriculum

Law schools require a bachelors degree of those who apply for admission. While no particular major is specified for pre-law students, it is recommended that they select courses from history, political science, psychology, sociology, economics, accounting, business administration, philosophy, speech and English. Pre-law advisors are available.

4103. Special Methods in Social Studies.

Department of History (HIST)

Professor T. Auffenberg, Chair
Professor R. Granade
Associate Professor T. Berry
Assistant Professors E. Benson, W. Bowen,
M. Miller, C. Ward

History studies mankind's past endeavors and achievements with particular concentration on its relevance to contemporary society. The study of history promotes an understanding of the interaction of individuals and groups and their effect on government, culture, religion, economics and society.

The history curriculum provides valuable research, writing and analytical skills that prepare one for a variety of careers in fields such as law, teaching, business, government service, communications, public history, social services, religion, and library and archival science. Many history students choose to attend graduate or professional school for further career development.

Department of Sociology (SOCI)

Professor R. Mills, Chair
Associate Professor J. Pounders

Sociology is the scientific study of human behavior. It studies the processes and patterns of individual and group interaction, the forms of organization of social groups, the relationships among them and group influences on individual behavior. Although sociology includes the study of all forms of social interaction and interrelationships, it has focused on the understanding of group or other collective factors in human behavior.

Training in sociology and social psychology aids the student in achieving effective participation and leadership in the various social groups of the community. Sociology, as professional and pre-professional training, also provides a broad liberal background for the understanding of, and professional employment in, the field of sociology, social work, higher education, religious-related vocations as well as business, engineering, government, law, medicine, teaching and administrative leadership at all levels.

The primary purposes of the Department are: (1) to achieve an understanding of persons as social beings, (2) to train and develop competent scholars who will carry on independent research on basic social issues throughout their lives, and (3) to develop mature persons who will assume significant roles in four specific occupational callings: sociology, religious-related vocations, higher education, and social work.

Requirements for a major in Sociology: SOCI 1003, 1013, 2013, 2023, 2033, 3003, 3013, 3033, 4053, 4103; three hours of Political Science.
